I Introduction

By the end of 1997, the Department of Culture, Media and Sport's database of National Lottery Awards held information on some 24,400 awards made by the eleven National Lottery distributing bodies since January 1995. The total value of these awards was around £4.3 billion.

This paper looks at the distribution of awards by region and constituency using data supplied to the Department of Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) by the eleven distributing bodies.

Awards made have been allocated to individual regions and constituencies mainly on the basis of the postal address of the recipient body. In some cases this does not correspond with the ultimate location of the project. Also, a number of awards are of benefit to a far wider area than the constituency and region to which they have been allocated. For example, awards to bodies based in London include many institutions that are considered of national importance and are of benefit to the country as a whole. The DCMS have estimated that awards to these organisations account for around 60% of the total awarded to London.¹

Over the entire period of the current lottery licence, around 28% of the value of ticket sales will be paid into the National Lottery Distribution Fund. Until 8 October 1997, each of the five 'good causes'² received a fifth of all money raised. From 8 October 1997, a new 'good cause' was introduced, the New Opportunities Fund (NOF). This fund will receive 13¹/₃ per cent of the money allocated to the NLDF. Awards made from the NOF are not included in this paper. The Millennium Commission will still receive 20% and the other four original 'good causes' will receive 16²/₃ per cent. By the end of 1997, the total amount raised for the 'good causes' was around £4.4 billion from ticket sales of almost £15 billion.

Table 1 shows the number and value of awards by distributing body for awards on the Department's database at the end of December 1997.

Tables 2 to 6 show the number and value of awards broken down by 'good cause' and region. In terms of the number of awards allocated to UK regions, the North East, London, the South West, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland had a greater number per capita than the UK as a whole (Tables 2 and 5). The value of awards per capita in London was, at £153.60, more than double that for the UK as a whole (Tables 3 and 6). The average value of award was also greatest in London (Table 4).

Tables 7 and 8 show the number and value of awards by constituency and good cause. The constituency with both the highest value and number of awards was Cities of London and Westminster. Details of individual awards to constituencies are available on request or from the DCMS' website at <http://www.lottery.culture.gov.uk/>.

² The five 'good causes' are Arts, Charities, Heritage, Millennium and Sport. The money allotted to Art and Sports are then sub-divided on the basis of population share between the Arts and Sports Councils for England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland.
