18th April 2018

Greg

Thank you for your letters of 26 March regarding the UK National Contact Point (NCP).

Earlier in 2017, the Department for International Trade announced an internal review of the NCP. The terms of reference for this review stated that “[t]he findings of the review of the Steering Board will be published on the NCP website”.

On 11 October 2017, I tabled a written question asking when you plan to publish the findings of the Department’s review of the NCP for the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises. On 18 October, you answered that the “UK National Contact Point is currently considering the findings of the review” and “the key findings will be published on the NCP website later in the year, following consultation with the NCP Steering Board”.

As it is now the beginning of April 2018, I am writing to ask why the findings of your Department’s review have not yet been published and when you anticipate publishing them.

I look forward to receiving your response.

Chair, International Trade Committee
