2. Admission of chairs' researchers to private committee meetings

Resolved, That, in applying any exemption relating to one member of the personal staff of the Chair granted by the House in respect of Standing Order No. 125 (Select committees: admission of the public), the following rules shall be observed:

1. The exemption will apply to only one, named member of the Chair's personal staff, specified in a resolution of the committee recorded in its formal minutes. A fresh resolution will be required to transfer the exemption to another person.
2. The resolution permitting the exemption will be agreed only by unanimous consent of the committee.
3. Before attending any private meeting of a committee, a person to whom this exemption has been applied must sign, and deposit with the Clerk of the committee, a declaration in the following terms:

I understand that the private proceedings of a select committee are confidential, and that any papers presented to a committee are confidential until the committee has agreed to their publication. I understand that any breach of confidence relating to the private proceedings of the committee would constitute a contempt of the House.
4. At any time during a private meeting, if any member of a committee objects to the presence of the person to whom this exemption has been applied, that person will withdraw from the meeting without any question being put to the committee.
5. If a Member of the House is newly appointed to a committee after the passing of a resolution permitting the exemption to apply, they will be offered the opportunity to object to its continuance at the first meeting which they attend.

6. A person present under this exemption will sit in the part of the room reserved for members of the public, will not participate in the proceedings of the committee or address the committee; and will withdraw when the committee is considering a draft report (whether formally or informally).
