From Dr Hywel Francis MP, Chair

The Rt Hon Baroness Neville Jones,
Minister of State for Security,
Home Office,
2, Marsham Street,
London SW1P 4DF

Wednesday 12 January 2011

Dear Baroness Neville Jones,

I write to you on behalf of my Committee. At our meeting yesterday we were briefed by our Clerks on what they know of the current timetable for the publication of the Counter-Terrorism Review. As you may know, they have been in touch with the Home Office for a number of months now in order to secure your oral evidence to the Committee once the Review is in the public domain. Several dates have been pencilled in only to be cancelled as the Review's publication has been repeatedly set back.

My Committee wants to make clear to you its hope that you will come before the Committee at the earliest possible time following publication of the Review to give evidence on its contents. The Committee usually meets on a Tuesday afternoon at 2pm but will consider a different meeting time if required in order to hear from you on at as early a stage as practicable.

The Committee Clerks will keep in touch with officials in your department in order to arrange such an evidence session once the Review's time-table becomes clearer.

Yours sincerely

Hywel Francis
