

Much has changed in a short time, and in these unprecedented times we have remained busy working hard to prepare for the return of our events business.

We cannot return instantly to how life was before COVID-19 and while cases are high and rising, everybody needs to continue to act carefully and remain cautious. With an aim to prevent overcrowding in our venues, and the adjoining corridors and public spaces, we are temporarily revising our room capacities for event bookings until the end of the year.
